Travel Experience Share Blogs on Facebook

Thirty-six students from 12 Hong Kong middle schools have embarked on a discovery journey in England on study focuses ranging from women's movement, literature and film art, tea and food culture to football fan psyche and street graffiti. They are funded by Wai Yin Association's education project "TES 2014" providing motivated students from less privileged families an opportunity to travel overseas on itineraries of their own design and share their adventures through daily blogging on Facebook.

From July 10 to 24 they will travel in England. Hong Kong public is invited to share and comment on their experience during this period and beyond. A prize presentation and an 11-day exhibition to honour the students' work are scheduled from September 11 onwards at Festival Walk, Kowloon Tong.

TES blog: www.waiyin.org.hk/tes2014, under "Team Blog", click the "f" icon to enter into schools' individual Facebook pages.

Standing for Travel Experience Share, TES is in its third year and destination for 2014 is England where students can put their decade-long language study into practice.
